

SENATOR John L. McClellan of Arkansas served notice yesterday that there isn't going to be any "blank check" grant of war powers to the White House.

Mr. McClellan, chairman of the Senate Executive Expenditures Committee, says congress will grant Mr. Truman everything in the way of military and procurement needs — but "national defense" can't be used as a catchword to give the president authority to shift agencies from one department to another.

A deep-seated quarrel exists between the executive and law-making branches of government — a quarrel that started when the late Franklin D. Roosevelt built up the appointive and money-spending power of the White House, with a corresponding reduction in the prestige of congress.

Rooseveltian policies continued by the politically less-skilful Truman have produced an increasing back-pressure — until the congress now has recovered much of what it lost.

The saving grace of our democratic form of government is that when we do make a mistake it still lies within our power to make correction. If the people elect the wrong candidate, they find it out — and next time elect someone else. And if the congress is over-persuaded by a glib and charming chief executive into delegating dangerous authority to one man, why, then, congress can itself revoke the grant — putting things back as they were.

Our country is already engaged in an undeclared war, and for war we will grant all the authority and money that is required. But "war powers" must be confined to war uses. We aren't going to permit the peacetime framework of government to be warped by tinkers — operating slyly when our thoughts are on the enemy.

McClellan Asks for Veto Power

Washington, Jan. 4 — (AP) — Senator McClellan (D-Ark) said today that congress should have veto power over any emergency governmental reorganization plans of President Truman.

He said he has prepared a bill, to amend the reorganization act of 1949, which would require that the President submit for congressional approval his emergency reorganization proposals.

Either branch could veto such proposals but would have to act within 15 days, under McClellan's plan.

President Truman asked the 81st congress for restoration of World War II powers giving him authority to make any governmental reorganizations he deemed necessary in view of the emergency. The congress declined to grant him such powers.

McClellan told a reporter his plan provides a method for the president to make emergency reorganizations but requires congressional approval the same as now is required for non-emergency reorganizations. Under present law, however, congress has 60 days in which to consider reorganization proposals.

McClellan said his bill provides that any reorganization made under it would expire with the emergency in 1952.

"No one knows how long this emergency may last," he said. "It may go on for years. Once some of these changes are in effect it might be difficult to get rid of them."

"I think congress should have a chance to look them over. I don't believe it will hurt to delay any of them 15 days — it takes much longer than that for an agency to get started anyway."

McClellan is chairman of the senate committee on expenditures in executive departments, which will consider his bill.

Taft Considers Major Foreign Policy Speech

Washington, Jan. 4 — (AP) — Administration critic Senator Taft (R-Ohio) was reported today to have under consideration a major foreign policy speech in the senate.

The Ohio lawmaker, re-elected by his colleagues yesterday to the Senate Republican policy chairmanship, was said by friends to have set no definite time for the speech.

Three top Republicans — former President Herbert Hoover, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, and John Foster Dulles, adviser to Secretary of State Acheson — all have made major foreign policy declarations within the past two weeks.

Taft, thus far, has not. He has, however, in statements and public appearances roundly criticized the administration's foreign policies, and demanded the resignation of Acheson as secretary of state.

Also, in a speech before the Cincinnati Masonic club Dec. 29, Taft made it known he did not rely with any great confidence upon the judgment of the nation's military leaders. He made this observation:

"The feeling in Washington is a kind of wavering between panic and reassurance, that goes right up to the pentagon."

Until the past year that generally left foreign policy in the hands of Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich). But Vandenberg's continued absence from the senate because of illness has brought the Ohioan more and more frequently into the international field.

The Republican attack on Acheson reached an apparent climax last December 15, when GOP lawmakers of both houses passed separate party resolutions calling on Mr. Truman to fire him. Mr. Truman replied in a news conference that Acheson was staying on in his job.

Since then, attacks on Acheson have largely ceased and in their stead have appeared major speeches by Hoover, Dewey and Dulles.

The only living former President proposed a "Western hemisphere Gibraltar of Western civilization" with one frontier on Britain, if she chose to cooperate, and the other on Japan, Formosa and the Philippines.

Dewey, in his third term inaugural address at Albany, urged full mobilization of all of the resources of the free world to resist Russian aggression.

Coalition of Southerners, Republicans May Smack Few of Truman Fair Deal Plans

West to Seek Clarification From Russia

Washington, Jan. 4 — (AP) — U. S. Britain and France will send Russia a new note in a few days asking clarification of Moscow's latest proposal for a Big Four meeting. Some officials here consider Moscow's proposals deliberately confusing.

While drafting the new note, the Western powers are pressing forward with plans for creation of a Western defense army, including German units. Hope of disrupting these plans is generally regarded in Washington as the major reason for Russia's talking about a four power conference now.

Secretary of State Acheson and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, recently named Allied commander in Europe, arranged to meet today for a discussion of the task which awaits Eisenhower, the organization of the European force within the framework of the North Atlantic treaty.

Responsible officials said there is no intention in this or any other important Western capital to permit Soviet diplomatic maneuvers to divert or slow down the defense preparations. On the contrary, Eisenhower's talk with top Washington authorities and his impending trip to Europe are expected to have the opposite effect.

The three Western powers, nevertheless, have agreed not to close any door to negotiations with Russia which provides a real chance of easing world tension. Out of this basic attitude, and despite deep skepticism about Russia's intentions, rose the plan to send Moscow another note.

That this will be a clarification of Russia's position on a Big Four meeting was indicated by Acheson at a news conference yesterday and later confirmed by other officials. A final draft is expected to be worked out by Washington, London and Paris late this week or early next week.

Acheson himself did not call the Russian note confusing but he did say a further explanation of what the Soviets were getting at was required. Actually some of the experts who have been puzzling over the document since it was received here Monday have found whole sentences they could not understand.

The suspicion that the wording was deliberately vague arises from the fact that confusion may be viewed in Moscow as a useful weapon. The Soviet note has been interpreted in France for example, and to a lesser extent in Britain as showing a real interest in working out plans for a Big Four conference.

Five per cent of net receipts of each district tournament goes to the district.

Washington, Jan. 4 — (AP) — A coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats was firmly entrenched in control of the 82nd congress today, biding its time to smack down many of President Truman's "fair deal" proposals.

Its leaders promised clear sailing, however, for anything the coalition considers vital to national defense.

The tight hold the anti-Truman group has on the new house was demonstrated clearly on the opening day yesterday.

There was no comparable show of strength as the senate held a routine 38-minute organization session. But the party division there — 49 Democrats and 47 Republicans — plus the fact that administration Democrats had previously been unable to elect an all-out Truman supporter as a majority leader, indicated rough going for the President there.

A similar informal GOP-Dixie coalition bottled up or rejected much of Mr. Truman's domestic program in the last congress. He held on to increased Republican strength in the new congress, he promised to be even more potent in the next two critical years.

This was pointed up in the house when the coalition, by a lopsided 242 to 179 vote, again vested in the rules committee a virtual stranglehold on the legislative program.

The rules committee is dominated by a coalition of four Republicans and four southern Democrats, the minority actually being four northern Democrats. It is the rules committee's function to decide when — if ever — bills are to be acted upon in the house.

To clip the group's wings, Democrats two years ago changed the house code to permit bypassing the rules committee 21 days after a bill's approval by other regular committees.

It was that change which the coalition erased yesterday.

Voting to return to the old system, which Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts claimed gave "dictatorial" power to the coalition, was 152 Republicans and 92 Democrats. Against it were 138 Democrats, 42 Republicans and one independent.

Advocates of the change claimed it was necessary to prevent action on undesirable and costly non-defense bills. Opponents argued that a majority of the rules group should not be allowed to tell the house what it can consider.

The surprising thing was the size of the vote the coalition polled. Most observers had expected the rule to be changed, but not by such a big margin.

The rule change will make it extremely difficult for the house even to consider such "fair deal" measures as federal health insurance, labor law revisions and other social proposals.

Shinn Chung Sook Will Not Remember the Man Who Came to Her Rescue But He Will

By HAL BOYLE
Taegu, Korea — (AP) — Shinn Chung Sook is one of the prettiest girls in all Korea.

I will never forget the hour I held her in my arms as we flew together out of Seoul, ahead of Seoul, ahead of mauling Chinese Reds. But I don't suppose she will remember it much. She is used to adventures and quite blasé about them.

We boarded a fifth air force plane at a field near the almost empty capital. The plane was loaded with soldiers. They didn't know Shinn Chung Sook at first but I had wrapped a blanket around her to shield her from the cold.

And one looked over and said: "Look, a girl."

Then Shinn Chung Sook stuck her head out of the blanket and looked around in wonderment. The whole line opposite us stared at her black bobbed hair and said to put her down. Finally, when my arms were about to fall off with weariness, Cpl. Ralph Cornell, of Auburn, N. Y., said:

"Let me hold her. I got a four-year-old boy myself."

War, Survival Crosses Minds of Americans

By RELMAN MORIN

New York, Jan. 4 — (AP) — The greatest debate in American history — on war and survival — swept this country and across the world today, gripping the minds of millions of people.

It was heightened by new U.N. reverses in Korea.

Letters by the thousands poured into newspaper offices. Sober editorials analyzed the issues. On both sides of the Atlantic, and in the Orient as well, speeches, statements and broadcast reaction rose like sparks from the central fire.

The debate was touched off by four prominent Americans, who spoke at intervals of about a week apart.

They were former President Herbert Hoover; John Foster Dulles, Republican advisor on foreign policy; Thomas E. Dewey, governor of New York; and John P. Kennedy, former ambassador to Great Britain.

Each pointed the danger, and uttered the warning. Each offered a plan for survival.

All four surveyed the resources, military, political and economic, of the Communist world and the Western democracies. All four noted advantages and disadvantages in geography for both sides.

They agreed on many factors in the equation.

But they disagreed sharply on three questions, which, in fact, from the core of the great debate. They are:

1. What is the relative value, to the United States, of our present Allies if war comes.

2. How much, if any, men and money should we continue to place in Europe?

3. Where shall Americans look for the hope of survival?

Mr. Hoover asserted that Western Europe has greater manpower and productive capacity today than it had in either World War One or Two. But, he said, "their minds are confused by fears and disunity."

America, he said, is to bring unity to them have failed, he said. One of his key statements was: "The prime obligation of defense of Western Europe rests upon the nations of Europe. America cannot create their spiritual forces; we cannot buy them with money."

Similarly with the United Nations and specifically Britain, Mr. Hoover said: "It is clear the U. N. cannot mobilize substantial military forces. It is clear continental Europe has not in the three years of our aid developed that unity of purpose and that will power necessary for its own defense. It is clear that our British friends are flirting with appeasement of Communist China. It is clear that the United Nations is in a fog of debate and indecision whether to appease or not to appease."

John Foster Dulles and Gov. Dewey disagreed with this summation. Neither made direct reference to Mr. Hoover or his address.

Of the same issue of America's Allies, Dewey said: "If our own ideals of freedom in the world did not require it, the stark necessities of self-preservation would demand that we develop and keep strong brave allies. We shall make united and mighty the forces of the free world, and swiftly, or we shall be."

The prime purpose of the 10-day conference was to coordinate more closely the fight of commonwealth nations against Communist encroachments.

Defense policies of the vast British-led group — covering more than 800,000,000 people in five continents — in case a new world war does start were placed high on the list of subjects the ministers are to ponder.

Prime Minister Clement Attlee of Britain is due to open the talks at 80 Downing street. He is expected to take the line that the commonwealth should work more actively for peace and not simply be a group of nations passively awaiting war.

He is expected to explain, too, why Britain is putting new divisions into Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's new Atlantic army: command in Europe at a time when the situation looks ever more critical in Asia. Attlee believes such action is the best means of safeguarding the commonwealth as a whole.

The talks are also expected to range over:

1. Problems of Western European defense. Attlee will report on his talks with President Truman and the decisions of the 12 North Atlantic Treaty organization (NATO) members at their Brussels meeting last month.
2. Commonwealth policy towards Communist China, including the situation in Korea and Formosa.
3. Possible preparation of a peace treaty with Japan, with or without Russian concurrence, and Japan's possible inclusion in Far Eastern defense plans.
4. The possibility of creating a Pacific pact similar to the North Atlantic treaty.
5. Defense of the Middle East.
6. Distribution of essential raw materials.

Chinese Seize Seoul; Allies May Have to Evacuate Via Inchon

Won't Bomb China Without UN Sanction

Washington, Jan. 4 — (AP) — President Truman said today United States forces will not bomb China without United Nations sanction.

He made this clear at a news conference in which he again expressed hope that a third world war can be avoided this year.

He also said, in response to questions as to what point would have to be reached before he would have to consult congress on a declaration of war, that if the proper time arrived, the proper action would be taken.

He hopes the time will never come when he would have to ask for a declaration of war, he said, adding that the time has not come yet.

He said the action in Korea is proceeding under the direction of the United Nations and this country is always willing to negotiate.

But, as to the Russian reply to a proposal for a Big Four foreign ministers conference, he said he would stand by Secretary of State Acheson's statement yesterday.

Secretary Acheson said further clarification is needed as to what the Russians are proposing. He said the Russian note appears to only restate the Soviet position that the ministers should meet to discuss German questions.

Mr. Truman emphasized that the United States is not formally at war, and he added we are carrying out our obligations to the United Nations.

At the Pentagon today, Secretary of Defense Marshall said the situation in Korea is developing "almost exactly as anticipated" and that U. N. forces have been deployed to meet this anticipation.

Marshall also said that the U. N. force in Korea had in many instances been fighting against "almost incredible" manpower superiority of the Communists.

British Talk Over Way to Halt Reds

London, Jan. 4 — (AP) — Grave leaders of nine British commonwealth countries in vital talks opening today sought ways to halt the march of Red imperialism and to avert a third world war.

The prime purpose of the 10-day conference was to coordinate more closely the fight of commonwealth nations against Communist encroachments.

Defense policies of the vast British-led group — covering more than 800,000,000 people in five continents — in case a new world war does start were placed high on the list of subjects the ministers are to ponder.

Tokyo, Jan. 4 — (AP) — Red Chinese hordes seized abandoned, fire-riddled Seoul today and smashed across the frozen Han river to bottle retreating Allied forces west of the abandoned capital.

The Reds were moving swiftly in a giant pincher movement aimed at shoving United Nations troops into the Yellow sea at Inchon, Seoul's big port 18 miles to the west.

U. S. Eighth army headquarters said Reds in estimated battalion strength were across the Han and fighting an Allied unit one mile west of Seoul at 11 a. m. (8 p. m. CST Wednesday). Other Reds were in contact two miles west of the city.

Two Allied roadblocks were reported under attack. Their locations were not given.

The swift followup on the Reds' seizure of the flame-swept South Korean capital — the crossing of the frozen Han — underlined General MacArthur's report on the danger of a pincher enveloping Inchon.

It was from an amphibious landing at Inchon that the Allies crushed most of the North Korean Red army in a vise last September. Seoul was retaken from the Reds then and the Korean war seemed in its final phases.

But the sheer weight of shrieking and seemingly endless Chinese Red manpower forced Allied troops to quit the ancient, devastated South Korean capital today. Nearby Kimpo airfield was abandoned after its installations went up in an awesome tower of smoke and flame.

A United Nations fleet stood off the West coast ready to evacuate U. N. forces south and west of Seoul.

Only a frightened fragment of Seoul's normal 1,600,000 population remained in the ruined city. Among the survivors, civilians, unable or unwilling to leave were lost children, wandering aimlessly. Dusty roads to the south were choked with military traffic and a pitiful mass of humanity.

AP Correspondent Stan Swinton reported the order to abandon came as a complete surprise to Allied front line units. They had just been told to hold at any cost.

He said the order was issued at 4 p. m. (a. m. EST) Wednesday. A British brigade fought a successful delaying action while other units withdrew orderly. Then an American division took over the rearward action.

Swinton said the British were ambushed on Seoul's outskirts about midnight, but fought through the trap. Helicopters brought wounded.

Carrier planes pined fifth Air force bombers and fighters in laying an explosive curtain to shield the withdrawals.

General MacArthur's war summary called attention to the wide flanking movement in the middle of the peninsula. He reported an estimated 180,000 Chinese and Korean Reds were driving toward Wnju, 65 miles southeast of Seoul.

Wnju's capture, he added, would place the Reds in a position to trap Allied forces to the west and north. It also would menace the main route to Pusan, old beachhead supply port in southern Korea. That's the route down which most of Seoul's population has fled.

If the road is cut, Allied forces west of Seoul could be forced out of Korea at Inchon. A fleet under Rear Adm. L. A. Tachy, senior officer of U. N. naval forces on the west coast, was ready for such an emergency.

It would be a difficult operation. There is a 28-foot normal tide in Inchon's harbor. And it would be the second evacuation for U. N. forces within 30 days. Removal of more than 200,000 troops and civilians from the east coast at Hungnam was completed on Christmas eve. They were taken to Pusan.

UN Prestige in East Hurt by Fall of Seoul

Tokyo, Jan. 4 — (UP) — Failure of United Nations forces to defend Seoul in an all-out battle will be a severe blow to prestige in the Far East, veteran Far East observers said today.

To many important Japanese and likely to many other Asian leaders, the loss of Seoul's abandonment without all-out fight was a shock.

Seoul served as a symbol of South Korea and its government and many observers believe a defense would be made for political if not for military reasons.

Before the Chinese Communist started their all-out drive on the South Korean capital, the United Nations had issued statements by South Korean president Syngman Rhee, warning the city would be defended to the last.

People in the Far East consider considerable importance to the matter and the moment will have a bad effect on public opinion, particularly among those in the Far East who are in Communist areas, the observers said.

These observers said the people of Seoul will believe they were betrayed when "withdrawal" is announced.

They said Far Easterners would raise questions about the United Nations' ability to defend the city, and the loss of Seoul would be a severe blow to the prestige of the United Nations.

The Far Easterners said any withdrawal would be a policy failure.

1. If the UN is looking for friends to fight on its side, it is more potential UN troops than anywhere else in the world.

2. If the UN is looking for places to lift Communist rule, Asia should have top priority. Cause the free nations of Asia ready are confronted with a aggressor on the march.

3. The UN has taken a stand in Korea and it will be fatal world organization if it fails the aggressor.

Draft Time Extension Sought

Washington, Jan. 4 — Congress will be asked to extend 21 to 27 months the time served by grantees, Chairman C. D. G. of the House services committee, said today.

Vinson told reporters the department of defense is up to congress, an extension of military service in the new law days.

Vinson said many proposals have not been fully worked out but "pretty well settled" service extension will be the main feature.

The Pentagon is whether to ask congress to extend the draft age to 21-year-olds to active duty.

Under the present law, men between 18 through 24 are liable for the draft when they reach 18.

Vinson said military leaders are studying the situation with the draft age and the number of men and children in the armed forces.

Other officials said the draft age will be extended to 21.

Stephen Lumber Operator Takes Own Life

Stephen, Jan. 4.—(AP)—A 50-year-old lumberman shot and killed himself early today while discussing matters with a friend.

Cornet George B. Mathis, Camden, said W. T. Wilkie, about 50, a lumber and logging contractor, killed himself after talking with C. B. Rice, a friend he had called to his home to discuss business.

Rice had just turned to go into another room when he heard the shot, Mathis said. The other reported friend told him Wilkie had been dependent over recent financial reverses.

SINUS CATARRH SUFFERERS

THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES has passed a bill to increase the tax on luxury goods. The bill is expected to be passed by the Senate in the near future.

More Taxes Predicted by George

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Finance Committee forecast today another boost in taxes. This time a general increase "all across the board." That means still higher levies on individuals and on corporations, and more excise taxes.

Other congressmen were of similar opinion.

"We face the absolute necessity," George told newsmen, "of paying for our defense program as we go, so far as humanly possible and consistent with a going economy."

"That means constantly increasing taxes. And one thing is certain: The increases will be proportionately distributed on all classes of taxpayers."

The tax-writing house ways and means committee said "we will have to scrape all around. Everybody will have to pay more."

The house Republican leader, Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, had this to say:

"This congress will do everything in its power to strengthen the military and the economy. If this means more taxes, we will have to raise them—but doing it judiciously without killing the eggs that lays the golden egg." Rep. Cox (D-Ga.), who led a coalition of southern Democrats and Republicans that yesterday re-elected the house "rules" committee, said:

"Except for those families that have lost boys in Korea, I don't think our people know what sacrifice is. We've got to make them. I think taxes will go high enough to make possible the payment of cost as we go."

This was the reaction to President Truman's statement yesterday that "the task ahead of us will require more and much higher taxes." The President said that "I shall, in due course, submit to the congress recommendations for substantial tax increases."

He made the statement as he signed the bill increasing corporation taxes by $3,300,000,000 a year, including a 77 per cent super-levy on excess profits.

soon isolated and left to die." Mr. Dulles went even further. He listed the achievements of the United Nations and the United States. Noting that Russia could boast of no new country conquered in 1950, he said "that means the free world has found the way to slow down Soviet Communist expansion by methods short of open war. That is no mean accomplishment."

He said Western Europe has depth, numbers and military experience, adding that a pre-arranged defense could at least make an attack there a costly operation.

Former Ambassador Kennedy, however, said: "We have far fewer friends than we had in 1945. The military strength of Britain is one fourth of what it was in 1946 and she shows every inclination to avoid the heavy burdens that would be involved in rebuilding it."

Little Rock, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Yesterday A. L. Kline, a Little Rock motorist, charged with ignoring nine overtime parking tickets over a three-month period, was brought to police headquarters. He paid $18 in fines and costs.

Today a letter from Kline marked "rush," was delivered to Sgt. R. E. Glasscock. Enclosed was another parking ticket issued soon after Kline's visit to headquarters.

Also enclosed were two $1 bills—one to pay the ticket and the other for "the cost of the patrol wagon bringing me to headquarters."

Glasscock returned the extra dollar, writing Kline "there is no charge for this service," and adding "we hope to see you again."

the church, vowed: "This cannot happen again."

Their mother, Evelyn Parker, said she was forced to leave the children at home while she worked because she could find no one who would keep them.

"I was not aware—nor were any of us—that these little children had to be left at home while their mother came to work," Dr. Caudill said.

He said he planned to back a drive to set up a nursery where Negro women forced to support their children could leave them while at work.

A previous drive to set up a nursery for working mothers in the slum area died for lack of interest. A Negro leader, Lt. George W. Lee, said, "now something's got to be done."

The youngsters fatally burned were Jack Parks, Jr., 4, and Earnmyell Parks, 3.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS WASTE

When kidney function slows down, many other organs of the body are affected. The kidneys are the body's waste disposal system. They filter out the waste products of the body's metabolism and excrete them in the urine. If the kidneys fail, the waste products build up in the body, causing a condition known as uremia. This can be fatal.

Controls to Come When Necessary

Washington, Jan. 4 —(AP)—President Truman said today across-the-board price and wage controls are going to be put on wherever necessary and possible as soon as it can be done.

He told a news conference the administration is working with that in view.

Truman noted that it would require legislation to clamp controls on food, but said that as soon as it is physically possible wage-price controls will be set whenever it is legally possible.

Asked if he would seek to amend a 1950 law which restricts controls on food prices, Mr. Truman replied by suggesting that reporters wait for his "state of the union" message next Monday.

Mr. Truman will deliver this message in person to a joint session of the senate and house.

It is customary for the state of the union message to sketch in broad outlines what the President wants from congress.

The 1950 defense production law, which gave Mr. Truman wage and price control powers, stipulates that price ceilings on farm products must not be lower than (A) the highest prices in the month before the war in Korea or (B) the highest prices in the month before the war in Korea or (C) "parity" prices — whichever were higher. Parity is a standard set by federal farm laws and declared to be fair to both farmers and consumers. The parity price rises and falls with changes in the prices of things farmers buy.

Some labor unions have contended the restrictions on ceilings for farm prices make it impossible to have effective control of food prices.

Mr. Truman remarked during his discussion that rising costs of food had contributed to the rising cost of living.

The price - wage subject was brought up by a reporter who asked whether any action was in view on them.

The President replied that the administration is working on it constantly and that such controls

Harrison Plans Conversion in 120 Days

Washington, Jan. 4 —(AP)— Within 120 days William H. Harrison's new defense production administration probably will be converted into a full-fledged, central industry-control agency modeled after the war production board of World War II.

A new federal building with 1,000,000 square feet of floor space, now being completed for the general accounting office, is being earmarked instead for Harrison's production headquarters and its expected staff of several thousand persons.

By May 1, said officials who cannot be named, it is planned the various agencies in the regular government departments which now look to Harrison for policy guidance will be merged into his agency.

In creating the DPA yesterday, President Truman gave Harrison top-level supervision. By summer, it is expected, DPA will be ready to merge them and undertake an all-industry "controlled materials plan" or "CMP" like that of the last war.

CMP amounts to a complete government control of production, managed by parceling out materials industry-by-industry and in many cases plant-by-plant. Three basic materials are so parcelled out—steel, aluminum and copper. This means that DPA will have to estimate total supplies of each material, then allocate them against the needs of the major programs — so much for planes, so much for tanks so much for railroads, export, and so on. When the requirements are trimmed down to match supply the complicated process of allocation begins.

Prisoners Granted Furloughs Return After Christmas

Little Rock, Jan. 4 —(AP)—All of the 161 state penitentiary inmates, would be put on where necessary, as fast as physical arrangements could be made to get it done.

granted Christmas furloughs, have returned on schedule.
This was announced today by Arkansas Parole Director W. P. Ball.
Ball said most of the convicts given furloughs this year were trustees who had been in the penitentiary more than three years. They earned their leave of absence by having good records in the penal institution.

Rules Piggott Erred in Holding on Election

Little Rock, Jan. 4 —(AP)— Attorney General Ike Murry said today the city of Piggott apparently erred in holding a municipal election in April, 1949.

Murry said Act 307 of 1949 changed the date of elections to make them coincide with state elections in November.

A municipal election was held in Piggott last Nov. 7. City E. G. Ward, in a letter to Murry, questioned legality of the election. He said that terms of officials elected in the April election would be cut short by election last November.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler
Copyright, 1950
By King Features Syndicate.

New York, Jan. 4 — Announcements have been made in the past few days that the sponsors of the Sunday night radio program of that lying blackguard, Drew Pearson, has decided not to renew his contract when it expires in a few weeks hence. It is stated that this decision was made some time ago for reasons independent of the man's notorious character of Pearson's broadsheet "news" which often is motivated by propaganda from hidden sources or for some other ulterior motive. It is an exclusive prophecy. I am inclined, however, to believe that the pressure has increased to such a degree that this reputable business firm can ill afford to continue to identify its product with Pearson's reputation. Since Senator Joe McCarthy, on the Senate floor, said: "Anyone who buys an Adams hat, any store that stocks an Adams hat is unknowingly and innocently contributing at least something to the cause of international communism by keeping the Communist a poke in an on the air."

In using the name "Adams," Senator McCarthy apparently made a slip of the tongue. While it is true that the company was not a Communist, it is true that it took him on, I do not know, but it had little excuse not to know, for he was notorious at the time. The Lee Hat company, of Danbury, Conn., his last previous sponsor, had dropped him with pronounced aversion and said: "It is a strange fact nevertheless that some business firms will finance the propaganda of very questionable advocates if they believe this process will boost their sales and profits."

Pearson's newspaper copy is, at best, a trashy professional journalistic standard, for he is known in the profession as a mountebank and liar, and the "writing" is atrocious. The character of Pearson's log-man, David Karr, a vice president of the Weinbaum Advertising agency of New York, has been touched upon in our dispatches before. But further official information has been obtained by Senator McCarthy.

On the floor of the Senate, Senator McCarthy said: "I have a record, containing photographs of the so-called Karr report, via the executive director and chief examiner of the civil service commission, dated June 25, 1943. Before doing so I should like to mention the fact that last week I discussed on the Senate floor the services being rendered to the Communist party by Drew Pearson, his collaborator, and the man through whom he receives orders and directions from the Communist party. Pearson denied Karr's membership in the Communist party. Least there be any doubt about this phase of the Pearson case, I am today reading into the congressional record the opinion rendered to the civil service commission from the office of its chief examiner. This is one of those secret reports never supposed to come to the eyes of the American people. I assume that Mr. Pearson did not know what this report was, he denied Mr. Karr's membership in the Communist party. As I pointed out, Karr is the connecting link between Pearson and the Communist party. He is the man who assigns Pearson to the important task of conducting a character assassination of any man who dares to stand in the way of international communism. I read from the report: Status of Karr Case

"While working for the Fuller Brush Co. in and around New York, David Karr formed a close association with the Communist party, joining it before he was hired by the Communist organ, The Daily Worker. The Daily Worker is a Communist paper which goes generally to all members of the Communist party and whoever else cares to subscribe. Mr. Karr admitted to several FBI agents and informants that he was doing rewrite work for the Party Organizer. The Party Organizer is the most influential of all publications of the Communist party. It is printed for and issued to only those who are high in the ranks of the party and it contains the latest instructions and decisions of the Communist party."

"That," Senator McCarthy interposed, "is the FBI analysis of this organization. I continue to quote: 'Anyone doing rewrite work for the party organizer was, of necessity, a trusted and powerful member of the Communist party. While making no mention of it in his application for government jobs in the office of war information and other agencies, Mr. Karr was doing work intermittently for the Daily Worker in 1937-38, at which time he was a member of the Communist party. Mr. Karr also wrote for a magazine called Fight, which was published by the League for Peace and Democracy, which was heavily infiltrated and controlled by members of the Communist party, at which time he informed an undercover agent of the FBI that he had inside tips on the Hearst organization, which he furnished to the party, and that he wrote under another name what he wrote the articles exposing the Hearst organization.'"

"Mr. Karr was militantly and vociferously against United States intervention in the war until Hitler invaded Russia, after which he adopted the party line and just as vociferously urged in the United States intervention. Karr became active in the formation of a victory council, sponsored by the OWI. He succeeded in having a heavy Communist representation on that council. He was also active in assisting the Communist party to form a united front with several groups which the party had not in the past, succeeded in infiltrating and dominating. The FBI reports show that while working for the Worker, Karr freely admitted that he was a member of the party. Karr also was connected with The Hour, which was headed by Albert E. Kahn. The Hour had a very definite Communist background."

There was much more information of the same kind in the civil service report, which closed with the conclusion that Karr should be held ineligible, and a recommendation for his "immediate removal."

Karr denied that he ever was a Communist. His wife for a time was accredited to the White House as correspondent of a Greek periodical in New York. General Harry Vaughan, the President's aide, caused the paper to disperse with

Mr. and Mrs. Simpson Complimented

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gilbert and Dr. and Mrs. O. G. Hirst entertained with a buffet supper on Saturday evening in the Hirst home for the pleasure of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Simpson of Cincinnati, Ohio, who are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Bemis.

The serving table was covered with a handsome imported linen embroidered banquet cloth and centered with white individual candles placed on a mirror reflector and inscribed in red with Happy New Year. Red carnations, white mums and red tapers in crystal holders flanked the center piece.

After supper bridge was enjoyed. There were thirty-four guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitaker Have Buffet Supper

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Whitaker entertained with a buffet supper on Sunday evening in their home. The mantel in the living room held an attractive arrangement of holly and berries.

The dining table was laid with an exquisite hand-drawn cloth that is 100 years old and belonged to Mr. Whitaker's mother. Edom cheese on a colorful chop plate flanked by four red candles centered the table.

Guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Horace McKenzie, Dr. and Mrs. O. G. Hirst, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Swain, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bemis, Mr. and Mrs. Orin Ellworth, Miss Ann McSwain of Memphis, and Dr. C. M. Hirst of Little Rock.

Mr. and Mrs. Bluke Crow have returned to Little Rock, after a visit with their parents Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Crow and Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Cummings.

Mrs. Winifred Wharton of El Dorado has been the guest of her her, and her White House credentials terminated.

It just couldn't be true, but, still, it had to be.

"Don't you believe me?" he pleaded.

Her answer was slow. "I don't know. Why did you tell me who you are?"

He looked down at the chipped black glass of the table. His low voice was hesitant, doubtful.

"I don't know, Oh, I had a reason. Maybe I'm screwy. Maybe worry and lack of sleep have got me thinking cockeyed, but from the way you reacted to the broadcast, the things you said and the things you've let me find out about your life . . . I stopped, then he tore his eyes from the table and looked up at her.

"You said that you thought I might be traveling with a woman—that my chances would be better if I were traveling with a woman and had Judy dressed as a boy. Judy is dressed as a boy, but there is no woman."

MAY knew what he was going to ask. Any doubts she had of his identity fled. This was Paul Twing. This was the man the FBI and the police of many states were searching for—a man with a price on his head—a man facing the death sentence for the crime he had committed, and he was about to ask her to come with him.

Why? Why should she go with him? The tumultuous hammering of her heart told her she was frightened, terribly frightened at the thought of it. Why should she give up the little she had. Tomorrow. Something might happen tomorrow that would . . . yet, something had happened tonight.

All week she had been thinking about this very man—thinking of him as a hero, a crusader. Here he was. She'd met him, talked with him. He seemed no less.

Through the endless drudgery of her barren existence she had so often wished she had something to work for, even to suffer for, something that could lend her life meaning, a cause. He was something a cause and he wanted her with him. He offered her that.

He offered her adventure, excitement—maybe death.

LOUIS TAKES BESHORE IN 4TH ROUND

Detroit, Jan. 4 —(AP)—Joe Louis' tremendous home town following argued vociferously today—in the wake of Joe's smashing victory over outclassed Freddie Beshore last night—that the old Brown Bomber is still the best heavyweight in the business.

Louis took another step up the comeback ladder by stopping Beshore handily in two minutes and 48 seconds of the fourth round of a scheduled ten-rounder.

Referee Johnny Weber halted the one-sided battle to save the bloodied Beshore, his left eyelid badly cut and his nose battered, from further punishment.

Ex-champion Louis' many rooters—18,085 fans paid $4.45 to see the scrap—pointed out that it took current Champion Bessard 14 rounds to finish Beshore last August.
